

Fr. Bunn Ends Term As President

Weather Man Predicts Snow At Council Dance

by Tom Comber

"Christmas In July" will be the theme of tomorrow night's Student Council Dance. Settings will include a Christmas tree, complete with lights, balls and candy canes. Holly and mistletoe will also be in evidence. Santa Claus himself will be the guest of honor. His identity will be kept secret until midnight at which time he will be given his annual bottle of Coca-Cola.

Bill Maisel's twelve piece orchestra and vocalist have been signed for the affair which will be held in the gymnasium from 9 'til 1. Dress is informal. William Mullikin, of Loyola Night fame, will do specialty acts at the piano during intermission.

Refreshments Upstairs

Ice cream, cookies, pretzels and other refreshments will be served free of charge on the dance floor. Soft drinks will be sold in the recreation room. James O'Neill heads the Refreshment Committee.

The dance will be the final social event of the year, coinciding with the last day of examinations. A large turnout is expected.

Chairmen Named

Richard Hartman and J. Allan Panuska have been appointed co-chairmen of the dance by Dudley Shoemaker, president of the Student Council. Thomas Gisriel is to handle the decorations and Austin Byrd the finances.

Neill Cole, chairman of the Invitation Committee, has announced that bids will be on sale at the door. It is expected that a large turnout will be on hand to inaugurate the summer vacation period.

Juniors Plan Prom For Mid-November

Endeavoring to revitalize the dances at Loyola, the Junior Class has promised the College a big name band for their prom in November, provided a sufficient number promise to attend. To estimate this number, the class, under the direction of John Enoch and James Norris, conducted a poll of the Student Body and found that 87% would attend and that a formal dance was preferred.

Vaughan Monroe, Claude Thornhill, Charlie Spivak, Elliot Lawrence, Hal McIntyre, Johnny Long and Johnny Bothwell have been contacted and can be engaged for the 8th or 14th of November.

John Enoch said "The remaining work and effort depends upon the students." Bids may be obtained for five dollars and the number will be limited. Students who wish to attend should give their names to any class representative.

The Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S.J., retiring Rector of Loyola, welcomes his successor, the Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S.J.

Fr. Talbot Is Named New Rector

The Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S.J., has concluded his nine-year term as president of Loyola College and has been appointed Director of the Labor School at the University of Scranton. Father Bunn's successor is the Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S.J., renowned author, editor and lecturer.

A graduate of Loyola College in 1917, Father Bunn was appointed president in July, 1938. His term, which was the longest in the history of the College, extended through World War II when the call to military service reduced student enrollment to less than a quarter of its pre-war size.

Founded Night School

It was largely through the efforts of Father Bunn that Loyola was able to function normally during the war years without the Military and Naval funds which sustained many other colleges and universities.

In 1943, under his direction, the Loyola College School of Adult Education was created to allow men and women of the business world to attend classes in the evening. Its enrollment has grown to over 400 and a department of Business Administration has been added.

Planned Memorial Chapel

At the completion of the War, Father Bunn announced plans for the erection of a Memorial Chapel dedicated to Loyola men who served in World War II. Subscriptions from students, alumni and friends of Loyola College helped to raise the $400,000 needed.

Father Bunn is the regional director of studies of the Maryland Province of the Society of Jesus, embracing colleges and universities.

25 July Seniors Receive Degrees

Twenty-five seniors who found themselves in the unusual situation of being in cap and gown on the stage at the Commencement exercises on May 25, and back at their undergraduate studies the following day, will receive their degrees in a brief ceremony to be held this Sunday at 9:00 a.m.

The group, referred to as the July Senior Class, fell under the recent college ruling of one graduation exercise per year regardless of the number of classes graduating that year.

The affair Sunday will merely be the conferring of degrees, since the July Class has already attended commencement exercises. Mass for the graduates will be held in the Student's Chapel, followed by conferring of degrees by the Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S.J., in his first official act as new President of the College. A reception and breakfast will be held for the graduates immediately after Mass in the Oak Room.

Those to be conferred with degrees include:

Robert Cooke Wins Gold Medal In Lee Oratorical Contest

Robert J. Cooke was declared the winner of the Annual Lee Oratorical Contest in the finals which were held in the library at Evergreen at 2:30 P. M., Friday, June 27. Cooke was chosen from a field of eight contestants who had previously been selected in the semi-finals.

The judges were Mr. Joseph Selinger, S.J., Mr. G. Edward Herzer, and Miss Finnan. The other finalists were Richard Cashen, John Evelius, Donald Fay, Francis Gallagher, Anthony Horka, Vernon Lemmon and John McWilliams.

Cooke delivered as his selection Edwin Markham's "The Man With The Hoe", sometimes called the Battle Cry of the Next Thousand Years.

Panuska Appoints Yearbook Editors

Announcement of appointments to editorial positions on the 1948 yearbook were made last week by J. Allan Panuska, Editor-in-Chief.

Sam Hasson was appointed Business Manager. He will be assisted by Edward Bangs and William Grill. Spencer Davidson will head the Sports Department, while Jack Phillips will hold the post of Photo Editor.

Charles Barrett will head the Patron Committee and James Norris the Advertising committee. No Art Editor has as yet been selected.

Commissions will be paid for advertising secured. Further plans as to the amount of commission will be announced at a later date.

Panuska termed interest "very high" in next year's project. Work on the issue will begin this summer. Underclassmen selected to aid in distribution are Rodgers Kines, John Evelius and James Edelen.

New Basketball Ticket Distribution Planned

Improvements in methods of ticket distribution for next year's basketball season will be inaugurated next September, although no definite system has been decided upon, the Athletic Office announced last week.

The major problem facing the office is a way to check the amount of "roving" of the student-issued season books. During last season these student books caused most of the confusion in ticket distribution. Under consideration is a plan to place pictures of the owner in each season book. This would probably be the most efficient method, but also the most difficult to institute, the Office said.

May Sell Season Seats

Among other changes is a plan to sell season seats to outsiders instead of season books. Both this and the price of the books and tickets are still undecided.

Approximately 650 new seats in the gym will ease the situation somewhat, but will be counterbalanced by 400 new students entering the college in September. The number of seats will still be far below the number of fans who will want tickets.

Charge For Student Books

"The old system will probably be kept as a basis for next year, but with several changes to insure a better and more equal distribution," Bish Baker commented.

"We may charge for student books next year. Issuing them free to every student, some of whom never used them, was responsible last year for much of the inequality in handing out tickets.

"Nothing definite has been decided, though," Baker emphasized. "We are still looking for a workable plan."

Dr. Doehler To Join Mt. St. Agnes Faculty

Dr. Edward A. Doehler, '30, professor of History at Loyola since 1931, will leave the faculty of the day school in September to become full-time Professor of History at Mount St. Agnes College in Mt. Washington.

Dr. Doehler will continue as professor of History in the Evening School of Adult Education.

Mt. St. Agnes To Become College

Mt. St. Agnes, a Junior College in the past, will assume full college status in September, empowered to confer degrees in the Liberal Arts and Sciences.

As professor of History, Dr. Doehler will teach the upper division elective courses. He will direct the College's International Relations Club and continue as moderator of the Maryland Regional IRC Conference which he was instrumental in establishing in 1945.

Has Given Lectures At St. Agnes

Dr. Doehler has lectured many times in the past at the Junior College and has taught several summers in the Teachers College.

After graduating from Loyola in 1930, Dr. Doehler took up graduate studies at Georgetown University. He received his Ph.D. in History in 1935. While studying at Georgetown, he held the position of instructor of History at Loyola.

Dr. Doehler will continue to hold the position of financial secretary in the Alumni Association, and to write Alumni Doings for THE GREYHOUND.

Two Actors Join Summer Stocks

Two of Loyola's stellar footlight performers, George Herman and William Mullikin, are New England bound this summer.

Herman, who was awarded a scholarship to Boston College in Dramatics, is striving for his B.S. in Expressional Arts. He has been a member of the Mask and Raper Society, the St. Ann's Players, the St. Michaels' players, the Junior League Children's Theatre Group and the Catholic High Alumni Players, and has appeared in 17 different productions this past season.

In the recent Loyola Night, two songs from his musical-comedy Collegiate Holiday were presented. The show is scheduled for production by the Loyola Dramatic Society sometime in November.

Bill Mullikin, who will continue at Loyola in the Fall, is journeying to Duckbury, Massachusetts, and will spend six weeks with Al Moritz's stock company. Mullikin is also a member of many theatrical groups in Baltimore, and has appeared in many hit productions, among them the Red Mill presented by the Alamedians.

Twelve new lay instructors will join the Loyola Faculty in September it was disclosed this week by the Office of the Dean of Studies. Four who have already signed contracts with the College are: Dr. William H. McHugh, professor of Education and Psychology, Dr. William D. Hoyt, Jr., professor of History, Dr. Kirwin, professor of History, and Mr. Provenza, professor of Biology.

Names of the eight other instructors have not been revealed, but two will teach English, two will instruct Business, two Mathematics, one Physics and the other History.

Hoyt To Be History Professor

Dr. Hoyt, who takes the place vacated by Dr. Edward A. Doehler of the Department of History, received his doctor's degree from the Johns Hopkins University in 1940. He will resign his position as assistant director of the Maryland Historical Society on August 15. He graduated from Washington and Lee University in 1932.

In 1943 Dr. Hoyt joined the staff of the Maryland Historical Society and has edited the Maryland Historical Notes, a quarterly of the society since May, 1943.

Dr. McHugh was appointed chairman of the Department of Education early last month. For the past 15 years Dr. McHugh has held the positions of Head of the Department of Secondary Education and Director of the Graduate Department of Education at Villanova College in Philadelphia.

Graduating from Holy Cross College in 1925, Dr. McHugh received his M.A. in Philosophy and Education from St. Bonaventure's, N. Y. He received his Doctorate of Philosophy in Psychology and Education at Temple University, Philadelphia.

Kirwin Studies At Fordham

Mr. Kirwin, who will also instruct in History, expects to receive his Doctorate from Fordham in the very near future.

Mr. Provenza, already holding a Master's degree in Biology from the University of Maryland, expects his Doctorate from the Johns Hopkins University within a year.

ALUMNI DOINGS

Reunion Of Class Of 1930

On Friday, June 20, the Class of '30 held an informal reunion at the home of the Alumni Editor in honor of one of its members, Rev. John S. Hild, C. M., home from the mission field in the Canal Zone. Father Johnnie has been stationed in the Canal Zone since ordination and will take up new duties in Alabama in the near future.

Besides the Alumni Editor, twelve members of the Class of '30 were on hand, a good turn-out for a class that numbered only twenty-five graduates.

Checking present occupations showed the following: Ken Baur is now connected with the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company. Fred Bauernschub is employed at the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. Bob Bouchell is running the Bouchell Equipment Company, handling office furniture and equipment. Minton Dougherty is an examiner with the State Income Tax office in Annapolis. Aquin Feeney and Ray Rodgers are associated in business under the name "Monumental Realty Company". Dom Fleming, an attorney, is Baltimore Branch Manager of the Phoenix Indemnity Company. Another Loyola wedding took place at the Church of The Blessed Sacrament in Baltimore on Saturday, June 28. At 11 A. M. on that day, Robert Bump, ex '43, was married to the former Miss Ellen Hart of Northwood. Included in the wedding party were three other Loyola men. Edwin T. Steffy, '43, was the best-man, Charles Rouse, '43, was one of the ushers, as was also Edward Hart, a student at Loyola and brother of the bride. Bob Bump saw service during the late war, as did also the other three Loyola men in the wedding group.

Announcement has also been received of the marriage of Robert Edwards Martin on June 14 to Doris Mae Hosfeld, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Hosfeld.

The Maryland Casualty Club House was the scene of the wedding reception of Charles S. Lerch, '44, and Miss Priscilla Charlotte Murray on June 28. Miss Murray is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clapham Murray, Jr.

Alumnus Forms Educational Organization

An Alumnus of the Class of '42, Brother Lucius, C. F. X., of the faculty of Cardinal Hayes High School, New York City, has recently been successful in forming an organization composed of Catholic religious and lay business teachers of this country and Canada. The organization, known as the Catholic Business Education Association, was started in 1945 as a local organization in New York, and at present has a membership of five hundred and six from thirty-two states of the union, the District of Columbia and Canada.

Glee Club Plans For Fall Term

"The members of the 1946-47 Group will be the nucleus of next year's Glee Club," said William Wiegand, present student-director of the Glee Club, in a recent interview. He also stated that he aimed to keep the singers together so that Mr. Felice Iula, the new music director, will have an organization when he takes over in the fall.

A majority of the present members will be returning, and Wiegand hopes that anyone else interested in singing will try out for the Glee Club in the Fall.

Mr. Iula, in addition to directing the Glee Club, will direct the orchestra and band, offer courses in Music Appreciation and Basic Elements of Voice and Instrumentation, and be in charge of all activities of a musical nature.

More Students Plan To Wed

The ranks of bachelors at Evergreen will soon grow even thinner than was reported in the last issue of THE GREYHOUND.

James P. Bailey has announced an impending exchange of vows with Miss Jo Ann Bering on August 2. Jim will graduate in January, 1949. The couple became engaged after a courtship of more than a year, during the Kansas City Basketball Tournament. Miss Bering is a student at the University of Texas.

Vincent Profili will march up the aisle with Margaret Jean Steen next summer. Vince is a Junior; Miss Steen is a Senior at Seton High School. The two became engaged on June 14.

Lawrence J. Kessler, Jr., '49, plans to marry Miss Norma Roeder on November 27, 1947.

Jack Shea Hicks, January Freshman, married Miss Louise Anne Wyatt at the Immaculate Conception Church, Towson, on May 16. Miss Wyatt, formerly of State Teacher's College, teaches at Stoneleigh School.

1947 Yearbook Will Appear In Early July

The Evergreen Yearbook for 1947 will be ready for distribution possibly by July 11, and definitely by July 15, it was announced by Hank Greenberg, business manager, this week.

Students are urged to call for their copies as soon as possible after their arrival. Notices will be posted when the books arrive. There are still 50 copies unsold and available at $7.50 apiece.

Jesuit Faculty Changes Announced By Provincial

The Rev. Joseph J. Ayd, S. J., a member of the Loyola Faculty since 1918 has been relieved of the position of Professor of Sociology at Loyola College. Although he will live at the College, he will devote his full time to the job of Chaplain of the Maryland State Penitentiary, a position he has held for many years.

Father Ayd has been relieved of his duties as professor of Sociology due to his illness during the past year.

Other Faculty Changes

Other changes announced by the Very Rev. David Nugent, S. J., head of the Maryland Province of the Society of Jesus, include the appointment of the Rev. James P. Mallon, S. J., as Minister and Treasurer of Loyola College. Father Mallon comes from Georgetown Preparatory School in Garrett Park, Md.

The Rev. John J. Heenan, S. J., who left Loyola in May, will return in September to resume

News In Brief

Work to provide more spacious quarters for the office of the Dean of Studies will begin on July 14 according to a recent announcement by the Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J. Plans call for the remodeling of classroom 103 into the new office.

The present Dean's office will be occupied by the Dean of the Evening School of Adult Education.

John M. Mattingly, Jr., of the July Senior Class will be married to Miss Jean Elizabeth Hall on August 2 in the Rectory of the Cathedral. Miss Hall is a graduate of Blue Ridge College in Western Maryland.

Miss Margaret O'Neill was added to the staff of the Office of the Dean early this month. Miss O'Neill will work in the Registrar's Office.

The engagement of Godfrey F. Funk of the May Sophomore Class to Miss Jeanne Dolores Murphy was announced on June 21. No date has been set for the marriage.

liberal arts course here." He is doing much better than "fairly well".

Definitely among the intelligensia of Loyola is Ed Shea. While earning all his honors Shea found time for the Sodality, THE GREYHOUND, and the Debating Society. "I like to study with the radio on," remarked Ed. "I then have to concentrate very hard to ignore the program."

After spending a quarter of an hour interviewing one of the Horigan twins we found out we were talking to the wrong one. We still can't tell them apart, but the one that claims to be John told us that he honestly spends very little time at his books. This didn't stop him, however, from taking top honors in the classroom.

In the meantime he was playing behind the plate for the Greyhound baseball team. As far as marks are concerned Richard Horigan is running his brother John a close race. The teachers probably give them both the same marks to be on the safe side.

That's how the experts do it. Do you want to be a scholar? Just follow one of the systems outlined by these scholastic champs. Then just sit back and wait for the honors to come.

(Moderator's Note: It just doesn't come by osmosis! These fellows are just too modest about their labors.)

Chapel Construction Delayed By Shortages

The drive to raise funds for the erection of the Memorial Chapel and Auditorium has reached $332,000. This amount represents more than three-quarters of the $400,000 that is needed to begin construction on Loyola's prospective building.

Although formal construction has been delayed because of shortages of proper materials, plans have been made to start at the earliest possible date.

The Alumni Committee, founded in March, 1946 under the direction of Mr. Isaac S. George of the class of 1901, disbanded in December, 1946, having obtained $200,000 of its quota of $250,000. A new committee was shortly afterwards formed to assist Father Bunn until the official closing of the campaign.

The largest contribution to the Chapel drive was the gift of $100,000, made to the college by the late Charles M. Cohn, '97. Mr. Cohn's bequest is to be used for the construction of the Auditorium, which will be located directly beneath the Chapel proper.

Father Bunn not only took a personal interest in the raising of the necessary funds, but contributed his support in collecting the $150,000 which he pledged to raise for the Chapel.

S. C. Revises Constitution

Revision of the Constitution of the Student Council was completed at the last regular Monday meeting of the Council, held on July 7.

Changes in the system of class and club elections, hazing regulations, rules for admission and expulsion of new activities from the Council, and several other addenda were submitted to the Council by Committee Chairman Frank Kunkel.

The revised Constitution will be printed in full in the Student Handbook, to be distributed to the Student Body early in the fall. Revision of the Constitution had been promised by Dudley Shoemaker in his election campaign.

Soph Class Gets Set For Hazing

"Where's your cap, pup?" Next year this terse phrase will be ringing in the ears of more than 400 Freshmen. Yes, hazing is coming back, and next year's Sophomore Class will assume the traditional position of chief executioners.

However, according to officials of the September Freshman Class, the "revised" hazing is not to be on a parity with the antics of the classes of the 1936-43 period.

Under present plans, a mild system of rules will be strictly enforced by the officers and hazing committee of the class.

Veterans Are Exempt

After a long consultation with the Veterans Club, the committee has decided to exempt all veterans from the "rituals" of pup regulations. It has been agreed upon by the committees to make the pup caps and ties obligatory for all Freshmen, whether they are vets or non-vets.

"Slight" Charge Made

Thirty-five dozen caps and ties have been ordered and a slight charge of $2.00 will be made to cover the cost of mailing. The entire Freshman Class will be given name tags and student handbooks.

The hazing period will start the second week in September and continue until the second week in October.

Looking Ahead

Those of the student body who attended Loyola during the slack war years were quite properly amazed at the size and activity of the school during the past term. All records have been shattered both as to quantity of students enrolled and the quality of student activities.

Apparently, however, we haven't seen anything yet. Wait until September.

Almost 50% more students will be in day school attendance for the Fall term. Total enrollment will exceed the 1200 mark. In addition, a host of new instructors (see articles pages 2 and 3) will highlight the academic side of the picture.

It goes without saying that athletic activity (and attendance at athletic events) will reach an all-time high. Loyola's 20 odd extra-curricular activities plan increased and constant activity: the Debating Society has already scheduled over 60 debates for the '47-'48 season; Dramatics plans the presentation of tri-weekly one-act plays; THE GREYHOUND may appear weekly . . . and so on along the line.

Loyola College, Baltimore-10, Md., is on its way up the ladder by leaps and bounds. No college in the state can surpass Evergreen in Arts or pre-Med courses . . . believe it or not.

Those are facts; the only speculative side of the picture seems to be whether or not students will support a highly varied activity program. It matters a great deal; a school can be no more active than its student body. But you can't beat the formula that has been adopted: more, better activities. It should work.

Fr. Bunn

The change of presidents at Loyola means more, perhaps, than it does at most other colleges and universities. The close personal contact between president and student body has always been a tradition at Loyola. It's no joke that "the president's door is always open." At few other institutions could a student walk in at any time of the day and see the president of the college.

Father Bunn, in his term as president, saw Loyola's student body fluctuate from a pre-war high of 450, down to a wartime level below the 100 mark, and rise again to over 800, while on the horizon of his departure was the prospect of breaking the 1000 mark in student attendance. The School of Adult Education was founded and began to flourish during his term of office. Under his direction, $300,000 was raised in the short space of one year for the construction of a Memorial Chapel.

Unlike many other small insti-

Final Issue

With this issue, the student publication concludes Volume XX. For the first time in its 20 years of existence the Greyhound has produced 15 8-page issues during the school year. The Editor and Staff take this opportunity to thank the student body for their enthusiastic support of the Greyhound during the past year, and to promise to do their level best to produce better Greyhounds in the Fall.

tutions, Loyola never faced the necessity of closing its doors during the War or of importing government aid in the form of V-12 or ASTP units.

The Rector's activities were far from limited to the confines of the College, as a list of his undertakings (see page 1) will reveal.

Loyola has become a better place because of Fr. Bunn. We wish him, in his new position as Director of the Labor School at Scranton University and Director of Collegiate Studies in the Maryland Province of the Society of Jesus, God speed. We wish Father Talbot the greatest of success in carrying on the tradition set down before him.

"Next Time"

We wonder if the frequent talk of Cafemen asserting that "next time I'm going to be an officer," or "next time I'm going to try the Navy," indicates a very healthy spirit in the country.

Just what is all this talk of "next time?" Supposedly, at any rate, the United States and most of the nations of the world are working to see that there will be no next time.

A pessimistic attitude about their efforts, indicated in remarks which presume that there is definitely going to be another world conflict in our generation, is a slap in the face to the men who are working for peace.

If wars begin in the minds of men, it is from the minds of men that thoughts of war must be cleansed, if indeed we are ever to have lasting peace.

Letters To The Greyhound

Editor, THE GREYHOUND:

Dear Sir:

I would like to add my feeble suggestions to those of the multitude concerning the present school news coverage of THE GREYHOUND. It would seem that in preparing the current issues of the school paper, our esteemed editors are prone to spend too much time pouring over the dusty manuscripts of bygone copies of THE GREYHOUND. Hope has risen in the hearts of Loyola men that one day soon THE GREYHOUND would be resurrected from its dismal, cobwebbed grave. This hope, however, is fast fading.

The disappearance of the Watch-dog column was a step forward. Such a column reaches its zenith in highschool days; it has no place in the paper of a College with a soon-to-be student body of twelve hundred. When the student body expands, the school paper must also expand not only in the number of editions, but in the number of student names printed and in the news stories interesting to the largest number of students. In a recent perusal of THE GREYHOUND, I noticed that for every column devoted to student activities there was another given over to alumni, faculty and miscellaneous items not particularly interesting to the average student. This is excluding the sport pages. The paper is written for the present Loyola students primarily, by present students, therefore, many more news stories should be devoted to them. Such activities as chess and bridge may be exciting to some of the gentry, but it remains questionable if they are to all or most.

Another photo contest of a slightly more interesting subject than babies (at least of that age), more novelties such as the "Uncle Henry advice to forlorn veterans" column, We See by the Papers, Shakespearean Comments, etc., are needed in THE GREYHOUND. On the serious side, articles giving information on what the student may expect in the way of jobs, graduate courses in Universities, etc., after graduation will remove fog from many a mind. (Or the mind from many a fog.)

I must make haste now and slip this message between the bars of the little window of my padded cell to the jailor whom I have bribed with a jelly bean and a copy of next week's GREYHOUND.

Eugene M. J. Tommey

P.S. My family says the only time I'll get my name in the school paper is if I happen to graduate.

Next Issue Sept 12

The first Fall term issue of THE GREYHOUND will appear on September 12, three days after the resumption of classes. This issue will mark the twentieth anniversary of the student publication.

Alumni subscription rate to the paper will be increased from $1 to $2 per year. This move is necessitated by an increase in printing costs and an increased number of issues per year.

The present Editorial Staff of the publication will continue in office until January.

Average time on this puzzle (without looking at the answers which are printed on page 2) is nine years.

Father Brown Omnibus

—G. K. Chesterton

Gilbert Keith Chesterton, the master of the paradox, will be long remembered for his essays and apologies, but his greatest claim to fame among the masses will be the detective stories he penned about an obscure parish priest named Father Brown. Thanks to a friendly publisher, the entire collection of fifty short stories about Father Brown are now to be found in one convenient volume; a monument to a brilliant writer.

It is the general policy of the literary critic to ridicule the humble detective story, but Chesterton has raised the tale of detection from the dregs of the pulp magazine and put it beside the important works in the English language.

From the time of the first fictional sleuth, one of the requisites of long life in the field has been the number of eccentricities that the hero possesses. The reader will always remember, for example, the deerstalker cap of Sherlock Holmes and the little grey cells of Hercule Poirot. The mention of Father Brown brings to mind a plump, clumsy, little priest with a broad clerical hat and an ever-present umbrella. While the usual detective is pictured as being conceited, Father Brown is humble and soft spoken. He seems at first to be baffled by the actions of the people around him, but in the end is the only one who has the correct solution to the mystery. His usual method of bringing the culprit to justice is to reconcile him to the moral law rather than to the civil law. Following the pattern, Father Brown finds in Flambeau the perfect Watson who, true to his calling, is always dumbfounded by the superior intellect.

Members of that strange breed of readers called "the mystery fan" will find in The Father Brown Omnibus a new hero; while the general reader will discover that the mystery story is far from bad literature.

The Year In Retrospect . . .

by Frank Gallagher

Twenty efficient, active organizations with a full schedule of events provided the impetus for the re-birth of extra-curricular activity at Evergreen during the past year. Several organizations, such as the Evergreen Quarterly and the Physics Club, were revived after a lull caused by the war years, while others, such as the Bridge Club and the Baldheaded Men's Club, were new-born organizations brought about as the result of student ingenuity and initiative.

Seven honor students, chosen because of their scholarship, loyalty and extra-curricular activity, were nominated and received into the Alpha Sigma Nu, the national Jesuit Honor Fraternity. This group spearheaded a drive to collect textbooks for the mission school of Father Reith, S. J., in the Philippines.

Debaters Active

The Bellarmine Debating Society members conducted what is believed to be the most active and successful season in the history of the Society. Verbal combat with Navy, Boston College, Georgetown, Catholic University, Johns Hopkins, McGill University, Penn. St. Joseph's College, Lincoln University, and Western Maryland were the major events of the year. Round table discussions of important topics over local radio stations were another large factor in the society's success. Following the Jenkins Prize Debate, which was won by Terrence Burke, the members traveled to the Dulany Valley for an outing.

I. R. C. Elects Crenson

Dr. Edward Doehler's International Relations Club, headed by President Gus Crenson, represented the case of Soviet Russia at the model meeting of the United Nations held at Catholic University. Edward Barrett and Crenson attended the I.R.C. convention at Vassar College. They also attended the second regional conference of the IRC at Notre Dame of Maryland and Swarthmore College, Penna. In the final weeks of the year, Barrett was elected to succeed Crenson as president of the Club.

The post-war reappearance of the Evergreen Quarterly, clad in the style of the new collegiate journalistic school, made its debut on July 3, under Mr. G. Edward Herzer and a Board of Editors headed by Dudley Shoemaker.

25 Years At Evergreen

Editor Peter J. Malloy announced that his class' yearbook would commemorate the 25th anniversary of Loyola College at Evergreen. At the same time he announced that the annual would be dedicated to the Rev. Joseph A. d'Invilliers, S. J. The book will be 125 pages in length and all profits will go to the Chapel Fund.

Plans for the 1948 Evergreen were announced by J. Allan Panuska, who was elected editor of the book at a meeting held in the office of the President of the college at the end of the semester. Samuel Hasson was named Business Manager and Spencer Davidson Sports Editor. An editorial board of 17 men has been named to assist the editors.

Greyhound Bi-Weekly

Terrence E. Burke was appointed to succeed Thomas L. Lalley as Editor-in-Chief of THE GREYHOUND at the annual banquet held at the Stafford Hotel in late January. John H. Plunkett was named Managing Editor.

Plans were immediately arranged to publish THE GREYHOUND every two weeks instead of following the old tradition of publication every three weeks. THE GREYHOUND published special articles with take-offs of syndicated newspaper features. THE GREYHOUND also conducted polls to determine student opinion on topics of interest.

The Mask And Rapier Dramatic Society, under the direction of Mr. William-M. J. Dricoll, S. J., presented three one-act plays at the Maryland Casualty Auditorium before an audience estimated at 600. The famous Morality Play Everyman was presented to an audience of over 500 on Passion Sunday at Evergreen and activities terminated with "Loyola Night" in June.

Bridge Club Formed

A Bridge Club was formed in the latter part of the second semester. The group is conducting classes for beginners and is also conducting an advanced class. The group plans inter-collegiate contests next year.

Founded by Raymond Clemmens, the Bald Headed Men's Club was formed for the purpose of rebutting remarks about the prematurely bald. Qualifications were limited to those with at least 13 sq. inches of bald head.

The Chess Club completed a successful year with 6 wins and 6 losses. Led by President Thomas Comber, the chessmen invaded Fordham and Rutgers during the Easter holidays.

Sodalities Sponsor Drive

The Sodalities united to sponsor a drive to raise five hundred dollars to aid in the reconstruction of a razed Chinese mission. The Junior Sodality sponsored one of the most successful dances of the year, "The Queen's Ball." The Sodalities also attended the Christ the King demonstration at the Armory on October 20.

Francis X. Kunkel was elected to succeed Edward Barrett as prefect of the Senior group while Thomas Daniels was chosen to fill the office of prefect formerly held by Frank Janowiak for the underclassmen.

The Veteran's Club, under their president, John J. Sweeney, conducted several parties for the veterans and the freshman class here at Evergreen. They also sent a letter to Congress in support of the bill to increase the married veteran's subsistence.

James F. O'Neill was elected to head both the Math Club and the Physics Club. Both these groups were addressed throughout the year by various speakers both from the group itself and outside contacts.

Raymond L. Clemmens was the chairman of the Mendel Club Banquet and he announced that the group would have a reunion one year from the date of that banquet.

Alumni Release Calendar Of Activity

Alumni Association activity for the period from October 1947 until May of 1948 was outlined by President Jerome J. Egan in a letter to the Rector. The purpose of issuing the calendar so far in advance is to avoid conflict with college functions.

The calendar has been turned over to Mr. Felice Iula who is to handle all social affairs for the college next year. Other copies of the calendar were sent to the Dean, the Athletic Moderator, the Moderator of THE GREYHOUND, and the President of the Student Council.

Meet the Faculty

Mr. Vincent Jerome Colimore, a native Baltimorean, is a member of the faculty of Loyola who, in addition to being an instructor in French and Public Speaking in the day school, also teaches Italian in the Evening School of Adult Education. During the tennis season, he coaches the racketers in their quest for championship laurels.

Mr. Colimore attended Loyola High School, where he was an outstanding athlete. He entered upon his college career in 1934 at Fordham University. Two years later, he entered Loyola University in Chicago, Ill. It was there that he received his A.B. degree with philosophy his major.

This summer he plans to undertake graduate work at the Fordham Graduate School in preparation for his M.A. in the Romance Languages.

In 1942 Mr. Colimore enlisted in the Army and after being attached to an M.I.T. outfit, he was transferred to the 100th Infantry

Class Meeting Period Scheduled For Fall

In response to an editorial in THE GREYHOUND (April 18, '47), the Office of the Dean of Studies has announced that special consideration is being given to the class schedules next term so that at least one period a week could be used for assemblies and class meetings. Although no definite time has been set, it is believed that the 3rd and 4th periods on Friday mornings will be designated.

Attendance Compulsory

Should the proposal be accepted and worked out, attendance at the meetings would be compulsory for all students. Discussion of class activity, school news, special announcements, elections, student council news and other pertinent information would be on the agenda.

At the present time, the students must miss at least one class when there is an assembly for reading Quarter marks and awarding of honors. It is impossible to hold an election with all present under the existing setup.

Stresses Problem

THE GREYHOUND presented the seriousness of this situation to the students with a front page editorial during the recent Student Council elections. It pointed out to the candidates the need for a free period. The fact that usually only one half the students were present to vote on money matters concerning all the students was a fact that merited special attention.

The candidates promised immediate action.

January Class Goes Swimming

A beer and swimming party has been scheduled for the January Freshman class for this afternoon.

Members of the class will meet at Oregon swimming pool beginning at noon today. Class members will pay their own admission to the pool, but beer will be served free of charge.

The event will be stag or drag, at the individual's option. Decision for the event was announced by class President Robert Sweeney after a class meeting held on Thursday, June 26.

Running With The Hounds

by Spence Davidson

For the past week or two we've been the victim of a clever and relentless campaign for publicity staged by sundry members of the varsity lacrosse team. The campaign was launched by Vince McGuinness, the lad who sported sixteen square inches of Johnson and Johnson's thickest gauze on his skull the best part of the Spring season. This, so we were told, served in lieu of a second varsity letter for lacrosse. Vince, to get back to the story, backed us up against a wall one morning, stuck his fingers in our eyes and asked in measured tones of sarcasm about the progress of the baseball team. We could tell without too much guessing that Vince was really asking "Why don't you write something about the lacrosse team?"

A day or two later, while we were having an intimate conversation with Helen about the chances of getting served a hamburger and coke (sorry, no coke, we have root beer . . .), Carter Beese interrupted with a stinging remark to the effect that we wrote about baseball solely because we were too ignorant to understand lacrosse. Both commentaries cut us to the quick—Vince's because we realized that the baseball team has been more or less monopolizing the column, and Carter's because we really do know what the old Indian game is all about. So this week we'll talk about lacrosse. Maybe Howdy Myers will read it and lure us over to the NEWSLETTER. Maybe McGuinness will take his finger out of our eye.

First of all we'll answer the challenge laid down that we don't know what the game's all about. We do. It all started when we were seven years old. An uncle, who happened to live in upstate New York, dropped in for a visit. This particular uncle was playing defense for the Iroquois in their historic home-and-home series with the Mohawks that year. His team was defending the South goal at the time, which was why he happened to be in the vicinity. The Indians, you see, use a slightly larger playing field.

Anyhow, this uncle gave us a stick, showed us how to cradle and check and how to break bones without scratching the stick up to much. He let us in on his formula for getting bloodstains off our equipment. Then he jumped on a train for College Park (the ball was on the right) after assuring us that we'd make a passable lacrosse player even if we didn't go to Saint Paul's.

Time passed and we got more and more interested in lacrosse. We saw all of the games at high school and followed the college teams. Then, one day, just when we were thinking about coming out for the team, we met an old-grad who sported a tricky pattern of permanent scars from having been fed too much wood. We became less and less interested in lacrosse and wondered about our chances of becoming reasonably skillful as a chess player. But we still kept an academic interest in the game and went to see all of the contests, always taking a seat well out of the way of any possible flying splinters—or bodies.

That's enough of a character reference. Let's get on with the subject at hand: namely, lacrosse at Loyola. As we see it, to get serious for a split-second, the Greyhound edition of Murder, Inc., is seriously hampered for two reasons. The first is the lack of a farm team system, so to speak, since only one Catholic high school in town plays the game. Secondly, and this one is neither their fault or the fault of the college, they are sadly in need of another field to practice on.

It's no fun to be standing by that center line waiting for play to come your way and then suddenly have a long fly ball to left center crease your hair. By the same token you can't really enjoy chasing those same fly balls—if you're playing on the baseball team—only to find your face skillfully bashed in because you were heading towards the goal and Bobby Rogers wasn't sure whether you were his man or not.

The only solution is to separate the teams and give the lacrosse team a field of their own, instead of making them feel like an orphan wearing hand-me-downs by giving them a little piece of the edge of the baseball diamond. It shouldn't be too hard to rent one close enough to make the plan feasible. We'll even offer to scout around and rent the field just to show that our heart's in it.

The second question, unfortunately, cannot be solved at Loyola. Our best bet for awhile is to stop scheduling teams like Maryland and Hopkins and concentrate on the minor teams. Rome wasn't built in a day and neither is a good athletic reputation. Remember, the basketball team didn't start out on top either.

Block L Outing Features Boating, Baseball, Beer

Despite continually threatening weather, a large crowd attended the Block L Club's annual outing, held at Linz's shore on June 26. Under the general chairmanship of Tom Gisriel, president of the Athletic Association, the party was held for Loyola's athletic letter winners.

Rain and a strong wind prevailed throughout the day, but the athletes found plenty to do in swimming, boating and ball playing. Over forty attended, and faculty members included the Rev. Robert P. Arthur, S. J., Athletic Moderator, the Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J., Dean, Mr. Rudolph A. Doering, S. J., Mr. William-M. J. Driscoll, S. J., and Mr. Joseph A. Sellinger, S. J.

Surprise event of the day was an unexpected appearance of Joe Bronushas, outstanding Hound athlete of last year; Bronushas was kept busy taking the members for a ride in his 25-foot Chris Craft.

Before lunch, card playing attracted all the attention, followed by a softball game between Lefty Reitz's boys and Bish Baker's forces. Reitz's team was victorious.

Special thanks should be given to Gisriel, who arranged for the affair, and to Bill and Hank Linz, who offered their shore for the outing.

Resurfacing Begins

On July 7, the Kern Company of Baltimore began the resurfacing of the present concrete tennis courts. The new surface will be Lykol, a material closely resembling natural clay. The color of the courts will be green with white marking lines. The job will be completed within two weeks and the estimated cost will be $3600, according to the Rev. Robert P. Arthur, S. J., Athletic Director.

Tennis

Greyhound Singles Champion Bill Thaler and runner-up Frank Scrivener represented Loyola College in the annual Eastern Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament, which started on June 30 at Mountclair, New Jersey.

One week later, Bill and Frank pooled talents and entered the Green Spring Valley Doubles Tournament. They fought their way to the finals where they were defeated in five sets by Mickey Pardew, Maryland Singles Champion of 1946 and Joe Tewes of Georgetown.

Cage Schedule

Tentative Card Includes Two Coliseum Games

Two games at the Coliseum, with North Carolina University and Texas Wesleyan College, highlight the tentative 25-game basketball schedule announced by the athletic department for next winter's cage team.

North Carolina, always a recognized power in basketball, which advanced to the semi-finals of the National Invitational tournament in 1946 at the Madison Square Garden in New York, will play the Mason-Dixon champions at the Monroe St. arena on New Year's night.

Returning after its thrilling 60-59 victory of last year, Texas Wesleyan is scheduled to play Lefty Reitz's Hounds on January 29. The Texans have contacted other colleges in the East and plan a number of contests in this section at that time.

Seton Hall, which saw its 23 game win streak snapped by the Hounds in a 54-53 tilt last year, will play Loyola twice, visiting Evergreen on January 9.

The University of Maryland is a newcomer to the cage card, while Albright and St. Francis (Brooklyn) will make their initial appearance on Loyola's home floor.

Bowling League

The meeting of those interested in the newly formed Alumni Bowling League originally scheduled for July 17 has been postponed until September. According to Francis J. Mueller, chairman of the League, the great response shown so far has made the meeting unnecessary at this time.

Alumni bowlers who have not yet enrolled may enter the League by contacting Mr. Mueller at Hopkins 0953.

Other sports shots, as well as photos reviewing the year in general, are on display on the bulletin boards opposite the GREYHOUND office.

Center, Jim Lacy prepares to lay up two more during THE game with Seton Hall. The Hounds snapped a 23 game winning streak by winning that one 54-53. Lacy made 22 of his 667 points to take scoring honors.

Other pictures show some of the captains of Greyhound teams. Bill Thaler led the tennis team, Bernie Saltysiak served in the same spot on the golf team, Bruz Dailey captained the swimmers, and "Mus" Bower was co-captain of the wrestling team together with Phil Lohrey.

In the remaining pictures, the track, baseball and lacrosse teams are represented. The thinclad foursome below raced in the AAU track meet at the 5th Regiment Armory. Tommy Lind, Loyola's sultan of swat, clouted five homers during the season. In the lacrosse shot Jim Connolly picks up a Swarthmore man during their game at Evergreen.

Vacation Etiquette Regulations Cited

Students soon to embark on a seven-week summer vacation will without doubt profit from a short brushup course in vacation etiquette. Presuming that the student body, as a whole, has concentrated a bit too much on studies and too little on social graces, we print the following list of rules governing conduct at Oregon, Ocean City, the Dixie Ballroom, and other summer spots.

(The following pointers are from Politeness and Education, published in 1868.)

Ladies Are Frail

"First, they (young ladies), generally the most frail in constitution, dislike instinctively all that can deprive them of the delicate, waxen beauty that is especially prized among themselves."

Re Ocean City etiquette, the author claims that a young lady without relatives for chaperones ought have it understood that "she desires and intends to provide for her own expenses, and if he is a gentleman he will appreciate her independence and respect her the more."

Bathing Beach Informal

The author also observes that "the informality of the bathing beach is absolutely no excuse for opening up a conversation with strangers."

A somewhat more recent tome (Vogue's Book of Etiquette, published 1925), scorns earlier "mid-Victorian" etiquette, asserting "Bathing clothes today are less hampering than bathing clothes a few years ago. This shocks some people unnecessarily . . ."

Ballroom Flirtation

As much to point is the observation that a "ballroom flirtation, being more open, is less dangerous than any other."

Particularly interesting to Loyola men is one section in Vogue's which discusses "What should be the behavior of a man to whom women pay too much attention?" The answer that follows is a bit too involved for our space here, but interested students may find it in the book numbered .395 Vogu B. E., p. 411, of the college Library.

Fall Semester Begins Sept. 9

Classes will be resumed for the Fall Term on September 9 for all students, according to information released by the Office of the Dean. Registration for the freshmen will take place on the 2nd and 3rd while the upperclassmen must register on the 4th and 5th.

Almost 400 freshmen will swell the total enrollment in the day school to over 1200, an all time high in the 95 year existence of Loyola College. 50 of the new freshmen have signed up for the A.B. course. This definitely breaks away from the trend established during the war years when the concentration was on science

.During the week of the 3rd, the freshmen will undergo an orientation course. This will consist of learning Loyola College school songs and hymns, becoming acquainted with each other and attending lectures given by the members of the Student Council.

Snack Bar Installed In Gym Rec Room

A soda fountain and a snack lunch counter are being installed in the recreation room of the gymnasium in order to accommodate the influx of students next year. Students who bring their lunches to school will be requested to use this place for eating so that those who wish to purchase hot meals may use the main cafeteria.

Hot dogs, sandwiches and beverages will be served at the snack bar. This arrangement is intended to reduce the rush on the main cafeteria until the new cafeteria is built in the basement of the remodeled gymnasium.

The new snack bar will be opened in September and will operate on the same commercial system as the present cafeteria.

Loyola's Brain Trust Thrives On Extra Work

by Joe Parlett

On every campus there is always a certain group that the other students label "The Brains". In an effort to find out just who these gray matter monopolists were at Loyola, we paid a visit to the Dean's Office. We found that in the last quarter five men made the Dean's List and also received four Testimonials of Special Excellence. We proceeded to interview these fellows to find out how it's done.

In short, the Loyola "Brains" seem to thrive on beer, outside jobs, and extracurricular activities. According to the honor rolls the five big scholars at Loyola in the last quarter were William Pillsbury, John Seymour, Edward Shea, Robert Nichols, and John Horrigan.

"I spend about four hours a day on my books, but my wife claims I still don't study hard enough," says Bill Pillsbury. His marks, however, do not bear out his wife's opinion.

Aside from his studying, he works about thirty hours a week in the Dean's Office and teaches at City College at night. That's a full day! All of this effort is expended toward Bill's ambition to go to the U. of M. Medical School.

"My wife wants me to do anything that will help us travel," says Robert Nichols, "but she makes no comments on my studying." Without that extra push that Pillsbury gets, Nichols still manages to walk away with an equal collection of honors. Eventually he hopes to become a C.P.A. At present he is doing the travelling in the family, since he works after school as a door-to-door vacuum cleaner salesman.

John Seymour says that only twenty per cent of his free time goes to studying; the other eighty goes to Shirley, whom he intends to marry soon. "I probably don't study more than six hours a week," said Seymour. "I owe my success solely to Camel cigarettes, Gunther's beer, and the right course. I tried engineering down at Hopkins, but I didn't like it at all. Since I have decided to become an English teacher I am getting along fairly well in the

First Post-War Quarterly Distributed Last Week

The Summer Edition of the Evergreen Quarterly was distributed late last week. It was quite a different magazine from the somber, 9 by 6 editions published from 1941 to 1943. The revived Evergreen is printed on slick paper with a two-color cover.

There is a photograph on the cover, which will change every issue, and the inside pages contain a liberal sprinkling of cartoons and other engravings.

Guest Writer Is Faculty Member

Dr. Valentine De Balla, a member of the faculty of the School of Adult Education, contributed the guest article for this issue. It recounts his experiences in Hungary under the German and Soviet Occupations of that country. Dr. De Balla draws the conclusion that life under the Soviets is even more unbearable than life under Nazi rule. The article is particularly worthy of note now that the Communist government of Hungary is in the limelight.

All other stories, articles and poems published in the first issue are written by students of Loyola College. The Winter Edition of the Evergreen is scheduled to appear in early November.

Call Made For New Members

A box in this issue requests new members and contributors for the next edition of the Evergreen. According to chairman of the Editorial Board, Dudley Shoemaker, only a small number of the potential writers in the College submitted material to the Evergreen.

"We would like to see an influx of members and contributors totally unconnected with any other literary activity," said Shoemaker. At the present time there are several editorial positions open for those who will put in some time on the magazine.
